Lakeville, Minn. -- (February 2008) -- National wholesale criminal research firm Omni Data Retrieval announces that it has completed an XML interface with ClearStar.net, the first 100% Internet-based application service provider for the background screening industry. The partnership will enhance data security, reliability and turnaround times for ClearStar.net clients by utilizing this seamless data exchange of 'live' county-level criminal research.

"ClearStar.net users will now experience increased efficiency due to the XML integration with our criminal research platform," stated Scott Maloney, Director of Omni Data Retrieval. "This interface solution will result in faster, more accurate criminal research for the employment and tenant screening firms ClearStar.net serves."

The integration makes it possible for Omni Data Retrieval to access client order information directly from ClearStar.net. Status updates and results are sent back to the ClearStar.net server and are available to clients within 10 minutes of submission. The robust system integration makes Omni Data Retrieval's selection of criminal and civil searches more accessible and reliable for ClearStar.net clients.
